

A mothers rage

"not again... no please no... not again... why...why.. why you...why not me...?"

The silent pleads of the dragoness fade into the cold dark night. A small shelter was burning brightly behind them as she cries. In her arms a small halfdragon. Lifeless. Cold. Only warmed by the heated scales of her mother. Shuviel is losing it. The histry repeated again as her heartbeat was increasing in speed. She did not understand what has happened, nor why it did but the ember that shines through between her scales got brighter by the second. Anger. She felt it. and she had no control. 'Let go. Just give in and you will have revenge' the voice in her head kept speaking to her. Its words lay like a shadow over the ripped heart of the woman, who held her dead child in her arms.

With a scream that shakes the silence of the night she makes it known. Doomsday is here. "I will pay you back thousandfold..." she said and as her eyes closed, the dark presence filled her mind. Corrupting it. Giving her strength while it feeds on her anger. This otherworldly power, which she tried to suppress was now set free. The body of the dragoness starts to increase in size. There was no limit to the energy she feasted on. She could feel it, but it was not enough. More. Her mind was filled with thoughts of revenge. Thoughts of a raging fury. As she opens her eyes again shepushes herself off into the night sky. A shining red object, with her wings lit bright red. Her scales scorching with flames of fury. A bringer of death, beautifully soaring under the sea of stars.

"BURN! BUUUUUUUUUURN! ALL OF YOU SHALL BURN!!!"

Shuviel words where stinging. A message of impending doom scratching in the ears of the mortals. But once they have recovered from it they could only see a wall of fire reaching the first settlement. There was no escape. No safety. The flames consume, mirroring the fury of the dragoness. "I WILL BURN YOU ALL! THE LAND. THE PEOPLE. THE CHILDREN!" Silence. Only the angered scream was echoing over the land. The voidsent utilizes the power of her blood to unleash another pyretic storm. The earth catches fire, such as the life on top of it. But she was not done as she starts to fly around spreading the carnage into a wider area. No. She will not stop until she drops dead. While she is spreading death and wipes out the ridiculous resistance light starts to spread from her wings. It looked like someone drew a zodiac sign into the nightly sky. But the orbs flaring from it and that kept growing werent a sign of peacefulness. Out of reach of the weapons of the mortals she breaths heavily. "Kassandra... mommy will let them all burn... I will cleanse the earth from all the mean people. I will carry your light into the future they have denied you..." With those words it was settled. As she swings her wings the orbs shoot out from the aetheric wings and spread over this part of the continent. Whenever they hit ground they left a massive explosion vaporising everything in a large area. The massive beat of destruction was carried over to distant lands aswell as this part of the continent was completely killed. No life would ever survive this storm of madness while the voiddragoness floats above everything. Disgust was seen in her face. Disgust for the people who once lived here. "Go to hell... suffer like i have suffered...."
